REPLY:

Private Higher Education Institutions

The Department of Education is responsible for the registration of private higher education institutions. The responsibility for accreditation vests with the Higher Education Quality Committee (HEQC) of the Council on Higher Education (CHE).

- (a) (i) In the period up to 2007, 443 institutions lodged applications for registration as private higher education institutions in terms of the Higher Education Act, 1997 (Act No 101 of 1997). Of these, the Department registered 144 institutions, either provisionally or with full registration..
- (bb) All institutions that have been granted registration would have obtained accreditation initially by SAQA and later by the Council on Higher Education (CHE).
- (ii) The 144 registered institutions that were registered by the Department after undergoing a quality assurance evaluation are listed in Table 1.

b (i) Table 1 also lists the 41 institutions that were granted provisional registration during this period.

b (ii) The name and respective year in which an institution received provisional registration is indicated in Table 1.

c (i) and (ii)

Table 1 shows the names and year in which 41 provisionally registered institutions which complied with the requirements for registration were granted full registration.
