Read the passage (TEXT A) below and answer the questions that follow.

TEXT A

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Nomndeni Mthethwa is an extraordinary young woman from Limpopo. Despite being unemployed, this 24-year-old is extremely active in her community. She is dedicated to helping orphans and other vulnerable children. Her aim is to give them hope and to make them feel loved. | |
| 2 | Nomndeni acts as a 'big sister' to the children in her area, helping them with their homework, covering their school books and treating them to cake on their birthdays. She has even helped get social grants for some. | 5 |
| 3 | She says, 'There are a lot of kids who feel lost and I tell them it is not the end of the world. There are many opportunities out there.' | |
| 4 | She managed to collect blankets worth R10 000 to ease the winter chill for the local children. Last year she washed cars, held cake sales and entered competitions to raise funds for the Christmas party for orphans. Over 150 children enjoyed a festive lunch and received gifts from 'Santa Claus' himself. | 10 |
| 5 | Nomndeni's role model is her mother, whom she says is the kindest woman she has ever known. She remembers how her mother would send for the children in their neighbourhood to come for biscuits and cake for Christmas. That taught her to share what she has with those who have little. | 15 |
| 6 | Nomndeni was nominated as AMBI* Remarkable Woman of 2008 and is still in shock about winning. | |
| 7 | 'It was crazy, overwhelming and the best thing ever!' she says. Besides the R35 000 prize money, Nomndeni's prize included lunch at Afro-stylish Moyo Melrose Arch with the talented singer and celebrity, Lira, of whom she is a great fan. She is planning to spend a large part of her money on a party for the children. | 20 |
| 8 | Nomndeni has one dream for South Africa and its citizens and that is to get everyone involved to help the helpless. 'I see 12-year-old girls who are running homes and that is so sad. I wish people would not ignore these kids. And from personal experience, I know that you don't have to be rich to help. Everyone has something to offer,' she says. | 25 |

SECTION B: SUMMARYQUESTION 3

Many learners at your school talk about how their bad experiences affect their lives. You have been asked to share ideas with these learners on how to move forward, no matter what the past was like.

Read the passage (TEXT C) below and write a list of SEVEN points that you will include in your speech.

NOTE:

1. List the SEVEN points in full sentences.
2. Use your own words as far as possible.
3. Number the sentences from 1 to 7.
4. Write each sentence on a NEW line.
5. Your seven-point summary should be NO MORE THAN 60 WORDS.
6. Indicate the TOTAL NUMBER OF WORDS you have used in brackets at the end of your summary.

TEXT CLETTING GO OF THE PAST

You know whether you are caught up in negative experiences of the past or not. Do not remain in the past, but rather concentrate on improving your current life. Being a victim may bring sympathy from other people, but you may also be known as a moaning person who likes blaming others for every bad thing in life. Accept reality and move on with your life.

There may be disappointments in life, but don't dwell on hurtful things and negative issues as that may cause stress and other serious health problems. Think about what you can achieve for yourself.

Consider the fact that people are not out there to make your life difficult, but they themselves have their own emotional issues with which you may help. Change your attitude from that of anger to pity for others.

You will be surprised just how much you can learn from your past, as painful as it might be. Write down things you have learnt and try to fill your mind with good memories. Remember that you cannot change your past. Instead of spending the rest of your life stressing about it, focus on your future. You will have a good one!

QUESTION 7: THE VOTER – Chinua Achebe

Up to the last night everything had been 'moving according to plan', as Roof put it. Then he had received a strange visit from the leader of the POP campaign team. Although he and Roof were well known to each other, and might even be called friends, his visit was cold and businesslike. No words were wasted. He placed five pounds on the floor before Roof and said, 'We want your vote'. Roof got up from the chair, went to the outside door, closed it carefully and returned to his chair. The brief journey gave him enough time to consider the offer and as he spoke his eyes never left the red note on the floor.	5
'You know I work for Marcus,' he said weakly. 'It will be very bad ...'
'Marcus will not be there when you put in your vote. We have plenty of work to do tonight; are you taking this or not?'	10
'It will not be heard outside this room?' asked Roof.
'We are after votes, not gossip.'
'All right,' said Roof in English.
The man nudged his companion and he brought forward an object covered with a red cloth and began to remove the cover. It was a fearsome little object in a clay pot with feathers stuck into it.	15
'The iyi comes from Mbanta. You know what that means. Swear that you will vote for Maduka. If you fail to do so, this iyi takes note.'
Roof's heart nearly flew out when he saw the iyi ; indeed he knew the fame of Mbanta in these things. But he was a man of quick decision. What could a single vote given in secret for Maduka take away from Marcus's certain victory? Nothing.	20
'I will cast my paper for Maduka; if not, this iyi takes note.'
'That's all,' said the man as he rose with his companion who had covered up the object again and was taking it back to the car.	25

QUESTION 8: MICHIEL OBERHOLSTER – Sannie Uys

'You are going to marry an old woman for the possession of her goods and money. That will give you the chance of realising all the dreams and ambitions of your life. Your love for me, your dream of our happiness together, must have been very weak.'

Then, after another long silence, she added in the same still, calm voice: 5

'Of course, you will benefit ... And especially the children. They are fine children. Come, let's drive back, my patients are waiting for me.'

After their marriage Sienie and Michiel moved into the big, comfortable, new house. Everything to do with the running of her farms, her business affairs, she left entirely to Michiel. She had no interest in the worldly goods Oom Karl had 10 amassed with so much care and diligence. There was little work for her in the house for Michiel's children were at school in the village; and for long stretches she would sit in the chair, her hands folded in her lap. To every question of Michiel she returned the same answer: 'Do as you think best'; and she seemed to sink deeper in the reserve that had always been so marked a feature of her 15 character. Only twice in her life had she given expression to the emotions within her; the first time when she stood staring at the body of her dead husband; and later when she had told Michiel – in the calm, matter-of-fact tone she would have used to discuss with him the purchase of a new plough or the advisability of building a dam – that she wished to marry him. Now there was no stress of 20 emotion that called for words. Michiel did not occupy himself with her. He had his hands full, running the main farm, Swagershoek, riding over to the smaller farms, taking firmly on his shoulders more and more responsibilities from the different bywoners or foremen.

- 8.5 Choose the correct answer from the list below.

Ellie responds to the news of Michiel's marriage to Sienie with ...

- A anger.
B relief.
C concern.
D understanding. (2)

- 8.6 Explain how Sienie's attitude towards money differs from that of her late husband, Karl. (2)
- 8.7 What evidence is there in the passage that suggests that Michiel did not think much of his new wife? (1)

- Sienie keeps all the promises that she made to Michiel before they were married. (2)
- 8.9 Is Michiel happy after he marries Sienie? Explain your answer. (2)
