QUESTION 2

2.1 Read the extract below and answer the questions that follow.

INTERFAITH LEADERS MARCH FOR PEACE

Faith leaders of Cape Town and peace-loving citizens from all over the Western Cape united to participate in a Silent Peace and Prayer March yesterday in the run-up to today, International Day of Peace (21 September).

The colourful, silent peace march to Parliament – involving religious leaders from the Cape Town Interfaith Initiative (CTII), the Religious Leaders Forum, traditional leaders, residents, the SA Peace Alliance and the Muslim Judicial Council (MJC) – began with interfaith prayers and silent meditation.

The march was organised following the release of the country's national crime statistics by Police Minister Bheki Cele. A memorandum was handed to President Cyril Ramaphosa's representative, demanding that the government restore trust by acting against social ills such as the high rate of violence and crime.

Berry Behr, chairperson of CTII, said, 'We are here today to lead our country back to the hope and belief we felt in 1996, when our Constitution was promulgated. It seems South Africa has wandered very far from the spirit and the letter of the Constitution. The rule of law is replaced by gang rule in our suburbs, where fear stalks every child on every street.'

Princess Chantal Revell of Katz Korana royal house said: 'It's sad and terrifying to see the current state of our country. The injustices happening out there are unbelievable. It is time to come together to stop it for the benefit of our children.'

Spokesperson for the organisers, MJC deputy president, Moulana Abdul Khaliq Allie, said: 'There is no other way peace can come but via religions, so that is why we are saying to communities, stand with us so that we can overcome these hurdles we are facing. The police have tried and internal security have tried, but when do we put out our hands and call on God?'

[Adapted from Cape Times, Friday 21 September 2018]

2.1.1 State THREE ways in the extract in which society would benefit from the march. (6)

2.1.2 Why did the organisers of the march think it appropriate that it should be a 'silent' march? (6)

2.1.3 How do we know that a large number of religions supported the march? Give TWO reasons. (4)

2.1.4 The march to Parliament is described as 'colourful'. Give TWO ways in which 'colourful' is a good description of the march. (4)

2.1.5 Three different people are quoted in the extract. Explain how this will influence the reader's perception of the march. (10)

3.4.2 THREE unique features of Judaism (6)
QUESTION 4

Read the extract below and answer the questions that follow.

VULNERABLE CHILDREN

1. Around the world, children are at risk. More than 11 million will die this year from preventable diseases; 200 million are malnourished; another million are living with HIV. In sub-Saharan Africa alone, more than 13 million have been orphaned in the Aids pandemic.

2. Children are also the victims of armed conflict. They are forced into killing as child soldiers. They are victims of land mines. They are more than half of the world's refugees. As nations unite to struggle against terrorism, there will be more and more child refugees, orphans and victims of violence.

3. Every religious tradition emphasises the beauty, sacredness and value of the child. Religious people recognise the need to respond to the problem of vulnerable children. In partnership with governments, charities and other humanitarian organisations, they are working towards making the world a better place for children.

5. Religious communities are uniquely equipped to bring about the changes in attitude and behaviour called for in the Convention. The World Conference of Religions for Peace, working with the United Nations, is helping religious communities implement the goals of the Convention. The World Conference of Religions for Peace, an outcome of the Parliament of World Religions, founded in Kyoto, Japan in 1970, is the largest global interreligious organisation, active on every continent.
