4.4 Do you think the media provides fair coverage on religious issues, both internationally and locally? Give reasons for your answer. (18)

4.5 For the Baha’i there is only one 'tree' or religion that exists. The religions of the world are not regarded as separate, as they are all ‘fruits’ of the same tree. In your own view, what is the Baha’i’s view on secular world views? (10) [50]
QUESTION 5

5.1 Study the extract below and answer the question that follows.

RELIGIOUS CONFLICT?

Religions have often been blamed for bloody conflicts. However, a close analysis of so-called religious conflict shows that it is caused by two interrelated factors. The first of these is fundamentalism. This is when a religious group selects and acts only on selected teachings of a religion, while disregarding the broader teachings.

Another contributing factor to religious conflict is religious nationalism: owing to weak government, religious organisations use politics to strengthen a religion (or religious sect) and gain political control.

[Adapted from: Religious Nationalism and the Role of Collective Representation: http://www.annualreviews.org]

In the light of the above extract, analyse the conflict in ONE of the following:

- Sudan
- Palestine
- Northern Ireland

5.2 Religions can play a meaningful role to bring about peace in conflict situations. Give TWO examples of this. In each case, briefly discuss:

- The conflict
- Name the organisations involved
- Give a description of the work done by the organisations

5.3 Select any ONE religion and discuss FIVE factors that make it unique (different from others).
