QUESTION 2

2.1 • In 2012, a short movie called Innocence of Muslims was aired on YouTube.
• This was an attack on the character of Prophet Muhammad.
• It resulted in violent protests in many Muslim countries.
• Initially it was reported that the movie was made and funded by Jews in the U.S.
• It was later found that it was in fact made by a Coptic Christian, living in the USA.
• It was funded by a Christian company called 'Media for Christ'.
• This act led to a heightening of tensions between Christians and Muslims.
• Media should remain sensitive, impartial and objective.

NOTE: Any other example of attacks on religion in social media must be credited. A maximum of 6 marks should be awarded if a learner has merely stated several examples

2.2 • Social media companies should have a zero tolerance policy regarding religious insults.
• There should be severe sanctions against account holders who abuse the media (e.g. freezing the account, reporting to the authorities, etc.).
• Religious organisations should form partnerships with social media companies, and monitor posts that could be inflammatory.
• Anonymous posts which insult any religion should be barred.

NOTE: Any other valid strategies should be accepted.

2.3 • Publishers/Editors exclusively determine which events are newsworthy.
• They also determine how much prominence an event is given.
• The media avoid antagonising their sponsors/advertisers, as this can reduce their profits.
• The media use sensationalism, as it drives sales. Therefore, controversial issues get more coverage than successful events.
• Large media companies own several media outlets. All these outlets will report the very same opinion.
• To the unwitting reader, it would seem that different editors all concur on an issue, but in fact it is the opinion of only one media house.

NOTE: Any other valid strategies should be accepted.
2.4. • One example of this is the state-run SABC.
• The SABC radio and television programmes uphold the principle of religious tolerance, as enshrined in the South African Constitution
• Examples of such programmes are 'Issues of Faith' and the daily morning prayers.
• Other media have differing mandates regarding different religions.
• E.g. The Hindu, which is a pro-Hindu newspaper, remained non-committal in the 'Prophet Muhammad cartoons' issue of 2006.
• However, it is vociferous in matters regarding Hindu values.
• A German newspaper, Die Welt, stated that Muslims should be accepting of such cartoons, as other religions are of their founders.
• In the Sudan conflict, Western media explained the war as conflict between the Muslim North and the Christian South.
• In fact, the war was not religious, but an economic war, with Muslims being on both sides.
• This is borne out by the fact that there is still armed conflict in South Sudan, even after independence from Sudan.
• In recent years, most media coverage of the Catholic Church is about child abuse by its clergy. The positive contributions of the church are downplayed.
• With regard to the Nazareth Baptist Church (Shembe), local media such as Isolezwe and Illanga take sides in covering the internal differences.
• They favour the Ebuhleni faction, and downplay the newer factions.
• In contrast, Radio Ukhozi, which targets a largely urban listenership, gives regular coverage to the new Christian-aligned faction. It gives little or no coverage to the Ebuhleni faction.

NOTE: Any other relevant examples of media bias in religious matters should be credited.

QUESTION 3

3.1 • Religious freedom refers to the state whereby different religions are at liberty to practise their religions.
• Everyone has a right to freedom of conscience, religion, thought, belief and opinion. However, the religious rights of others must be respected at all times.
• Religious observances may be conducted at any state institutions on an equal basis
• Attendance must be free and voluntary.
• Persons belonging to a religious community have a right to enjoy practising their religion and to maintain religious association with other organs of civil society.
3.2 Eastern Idea
- The Eastern idea of religious tolerance means that a person can practise more than one religion at the same time.
- In Japan, a large part of the population is both Buddhist and Shinto.
- This is because all Eastern religions share a common belief that nature is full of spiritual beings.
- Most Eastern religions also do not have strong evangelistic/missionary or propagation tendencies.
- Forced conversion is not a common goal in Eastern religions.
- In the East, tolerance means not to force people to have only one religion.

Western Idea
- The Western idea of religious tolerance focuses on the individual freedom to choose their belief, express their ideas, and form groups of believers.
- However, they may not intrude on the freedom and rights of others.
- It means allowing people to convert to a religion of their choice.
- Western religions have a unique identity, and are not tolerant of syncretism.

NOTE: Candidates must be credited any other for valid points.
A maximum of six marks must be awarded if the answer does not address Western and Eastern differences.

3.3
- All candidates are free to practise and participate in any religion of their choice.
- Attendance at religious practices and gatherings is voluntary and open to everyone.
- Religious holidays of all religions will be treated equally.
- Religious dressing is allowed on special religious holidays.

NOTE: Any valid point that is in line with the Constitution of South Africa and promotes religious freedom and tolerance must be credited.

3.4
- During the apartheid era only Christianity was recognised as a state religion. Christianity was the dominant religion.
- Christian -National Education was the state's education policy.
- State funds were used to pay salaries only of some Christian ministers.
- In a democratic South Africa all religions are given equal status.
- Religion Studies is a NSC subject that studies different religions.
- It replaced Biblical Studies and other subjects that focused only on one religion.
- Freedom of religions is enshrined in our constitution.
- In all state and official meetings, prayers are either universal in nature, or multi-faith.

NOTE: Candidates must be credited for similar valid points.
3.5 3.5.1 Judaism

- Happy are those who maintain justice and do righteousness at all times. (Tehillim/Psalm 106:3)
- When an alien lives with you in your land, do not ill-treat him (Leviticus 19:33)
- Have we not all one Father? Did not one God create us? (Malachi 2:19)

Buddhism

- They promote shared humanness.
- There is a shared aspiration of gaining happiness and avoiding suffering.
- One should neither kill nor cause to kill.

NOTE: Relevant teachings from these or other religions must be credited.

3.5.2 Judaism

- God cares for the oppressed and wants his people to bring justice to the world. This means that Jews must stop any form of racism.
- The alien living with you must be treated as one of your native born. They must all be brothers and sisters.
- The Tanach teaches that Jews have been given a special responsibility by God to show God's law to the rest of humanity and to promote racial harmony.

Buddhism

- Buddhism sees being born as a human as rare and very precious, since one can be born as so many other types of being, yet humanity is the only condition in which enlightenment is possible.
- Buddhism indeed claims that those who follow the Buddhist path are happy. (The Four Noble Truths)
- Since Buddhism sees evil as the result of ignorance, it holds that evil can be overcome by knowledge. To obtain this knowledge, Buddhism prescribes meditation.
- Karma means action - a deed or a course of action decided on and executed by an individual in freedom. In the second place, karma means the consequences of actions.

NOTE: Relevant teachings from these or other religions must be credited.
QUESTION 4

4.1 4.1.1 Myth
- It often contains historical and metaphorical material.
- Myths are not factual accounts but are used to convey spiritual truths.
- They reveal the deepest truths about creation, life, and death.
- A popular Xhosa myth is 'The King of the Waters'.
- It is about the powerful forces of nature (e.g. cyclones).
- It also emphasizes that importance of one's family, since they are the first to provide support, in the event of a disaster.
- Abrahamic explanations of Adam and Eve could be seen as a myth that explains Creationism.
- This is so for people who do not interpret scripture literally.

NOTE: Similar points and examples must be credited.

4.1.2 Belief
- It means what the adherents claim to be true.
- Beliefs form the foundations that bring people together for a common cause and help to create a shared identity.
- Belief means a firm opinion e.g. According to the Islamic faith, besides Allah there is no other god and Muhammad is his prophet.
- Belief also refers to the acceptance of a thing, fact, statement, teaching, etc.
- Belief is also used as a synonym for religion, e.g. Jewish faith.

NOTE: Similar points and examples must be credited.

4.2 EXAMPLE 1: AFRICAN TRADITIONAL RELIGION
- It promotes the value of Ubuntu.
- It is a clan-based religion.
- The communal way of life is central.
- There is a veneration of ancestors.
- Life after death does not involve reward or punishment.

EXAMPLE 2: ISLAM
- The belief is that there is only ONE God called Allah.
- They believe that God sent various prophets but the final messenger is Prophet Muhammad.
- They believe that the Qur'an was revealed in Arabic language and must be read in Arabic language.
- Their way of life is much the same as their religion.
- Their sources are the Qur'an and Hadith.
4.3 • EXAMPLE 1: CONFLICT IN DARFUR/SUDAN

4.3.1 • Divisions in Darfur society can be traced back over 100 years.
• The two main causes of the divisions are ethnic and cultural.
• Religion itself does not appear to be a radical source of division.
• Most people in the area are Sunni Muslims although there are also a number of African traditionalists.
• There are also those who are Christians.
• Through the centuries, nomads and farmers worked out a way to co-exist.
• Darfur was a centre of the slave trade in North East Africa, and some acrimony persists.

4.3.2 • In 2005 South Africa brokered a peace deal between North and South Sudan.
• However, conflict continued.
• A UN backed referendum in 2011 decided on partition of the South.
• The harmonious relationship between Khartoum and Juba was short-lived.
• The conflict continues, with the main issue being the Heglig oil fields.
• Ethnic and tribal conflicts continue in South Sudan.
• As a result, South Sudan is faced with a huge humanitarian crisis.

4.3.3 • Most people involved in the conflict are Sunni Muslims.
• Religious aid organizations such as Islamic Relief Agency and the Catholic Agency for Overseas Development focus on practical support.
• They supply building materials and medical assistance.
• They build and repair clinics and schools.
• They supply food.
• They also train the local communities on Life Skills.
• These organizations are not able to play a role in stopping the conflicts.
• There is some degree of coordination that has taken place between these agencies.
• EXAMPLE 2: UGANDA

4.3.1 • Uganda was ravaged by many regional conflicts, as a result of a weak central government.
• Its economy suffered as a result of battles on its borders with Kenya and Sudan.
• The terrorist group called the 'Lord's Resistance Army' (LRA) was formed in 1985 to attack the government.
• The founder was Joseph Kony, a fundamentalist Christian.
• This group aimed to establish a government based on the Biblical Ten Commandments.
• The group operated in Uganda, the DRC and South Sudan.
• The terror group attacked civilians and kidnapped the children.

4.3.2 • In many ways, Uganda has started to become an African success story.
• It has turned the corner in the fight against HIV and Aids.
• It now has a growing economy.
• However, the LRA remains a threat to Uganda’s political stability.
• The International Criminal Court has issued warrants of arrest for Kony and his leadership.
• The LRA is currently seeking a negotiated surrender to the Ugandan government.
• The group is also kidnapping children to serve in its forces.
• There are reports that the LRA is taking advantage of the crisis in Central African Republic.

4.3.3 • It is clear that the LRA is based on Christian philosophy.
• However, they have a fundamentalist interpretation of scripture.
• They themselves violate the Commandment 'Thou shalt not kill', as they are accused of mass murder.
• Organizations such as the African Council of Religious leaders (ACRL) have condemned the LRA.
• The major role is expressed in the creation of charitable organizations, rather than politics.
• They help the people to rebuild their lives, by providing essentials such as food, water and shelter.
• This is done in cooperation with the United Nations.
QUESTION 5

5.1 YES
• Missionaries worked with colonial powers and authorities to get land.
• They used local people for cheap labour.
• They did not respect the religion of indigenous people but enforced Christianity using harsh methods.
• They disregarded indigenous culture such as polygamy, and collective ownership of land.
• They introduced the cultures and language of the oppressors.
• Africans were given Western names and made to dress in Western clothes.
• They robbed people of their birth right.
• People who did not convert to Christianity were called primitive sinners.

OR

5.2
• Promote the gospel within an interfaith environment.

5.3

5.3.1 The World Council of Churches
• The WCC encourages cooperation across the different religious traditions.
• It takes active steps to redress prejudice, distortion, and insensitivity.
• It encourages dialogue with people of different faiths.

5.3.2 The World Conference of Religions for Peace (WCRP)
• Conflict transformation and reconciliation.
• Disarmament and security.
• Development and ecology.
• Human rights and responsibilities.

5.3.3 The World Parliament of Religion
• Interreligious education to encourage respect for people of different religions.
• Their focus is on addressing prejudice and intolerance.
• Violence-free communication and conflict resolution.
• Environmental and developmental education to raise awareness of the importance of preserving the Earth and its resources for all.

5.3.2 The World Council of Churches
• In 1979 they published two textbooks, Guidelines on Dialogue with People of Living Faiths and Ideologies and My Neighbour’s Faith and Mine.
• The WCC has made theological discoveries through inter-denominational dialogue.
• People of different faiths are now able to worship and pray together.
• There is co-operation across religion in many countries today.
• Much of the projects of the WCC are ongoing projects in the world and are successful.
• This is evident by the substantial following that the WCC has.

The World Conference of Religions for Peace (WCRP)
• The South African branch led by people like Frank Chikane and Desmond Tutu played a significant role in the 1980s and 1990s but it has collapsed, mainly from lack of funding.
• Its branch in KwaZulu-Natal is still functioning as they encouraged the religious communities to vote in the 2006 elections.
• They have also, together with the Health Education and AIDS Research Division at University of KwaZulu-Natal formed an HIV and AIDS Inter-religious Forum
• The contribution of this organisation is recognised all over the world.
• In Europe, the general secretary issued a statement on the present conflict in Israel and Lebanon condemning the present conflicts.
• There was also a strong interfaith response to the publication of cartoons considered by Muslims to be offensive.
• The work for this organisation is succeeding all over the world.

The World Parliament of Religion
• They were able to get 8 000 signatories from different religions, who signed a commitment to work for peace.
• They have worked with different governments of the world, reducing internal and international debt.
• They help people to get access to safe and clean water.
• They are responding to the plight of refugees.
• They are promoting interreligious dialogue in countries affected by religious and political conflicts.
