INTRODUCTION

A. What is Marketing Communication?
Marketing Communication uses the correct type of advertising to communicate and create awareness of a product or service on offer. The role of Marketing Communication includes promoting image; providing information; creating, increasing and stabilising demand; differentiating product features and benefits; providing competitive differentiation, lead generation and customer retention and loyalty and motivating staff. The communication channels used include phone, fax, e-mail, personal letter and memo.

B. Why is Marketing Communication important in the Marketing programme?
Marketing Communication links directly to maximising sales. Marketing Communication considers the target market and chooses the most appropriate type of communication to reach and influence this market.

C. The link between the Marketing Communication Learning Outcomes and the Critical and Developmental Outcomes
Successful communication with the customer is essential in marketing as communication is directly linked to sales. Students have to interact with customers, solve their problems and encourage them to buy products or use services. This links to the Critical Outcome: identify and solve problems in which responses display that responsible decisions, using critical and creative thinking, have been made. For students to achieve these objectives, they must understand the world as a set of interrelated parts of a system using language to explore and express links and investigate a global range of contexts and texts.

If students want to achieve success in marketing, they have to work effectively with others as a member of a team, group, organisation and community. Students also have to organise and manage themselves and their activities responsibly and effectively to respond to the marketing department’s needs. Students collect, analyse, organise and critically evaluate information using marketing research so that the organisation knows what appeals to the customer and uses communication that appeals to and motivates the customer to purchase the product or service. Students will need to communicate effectively using visual and language skills in marketing proposal presentations or reports to managers about marketing functions and activities. This would require that they use science and technology effectively and critically, showing responsibility to the environment and the health of others.

The Developmental Outcomes must be incorporated into the learning material so that students can become aware of the importance of these outcomes in conjunction with the Marketing Communication learning material.

D. Factors that contribute to achieving the Marketing Communication Learning Outcomes
The student must possess the following characteristics or attributes to achieve Marketing Communication Learning Outcomes:

- Good communication skills
- Good interpersonal skills
- Good social skills and people-centredness
- Creative flair for design and graphics
- Keen powers of observation
- Ability to make decisions accurately
- Analytic ability
1 DURATION AND TUITION TIME
This is a one year instructional programme comprising 200 teaching and learning hours. The subject may be offered on a part-time basis provided the candidate meets all of the assessment requirements.
Course preparation should consider students with special education needs.

2 SUBJECT LEVEL FOCUS
Use of communication in marketing activities

3 ASSESSMENT REQUIREMENTS

3.1 Internal assessment (50 percent)

3.1.1 Theoretical Component
The theoretical component will form 40 percent of internal assessment.
Internal assessment of the theoretical component of Marketing Communication NQF Level 3 will take the form of observation, class questions, group work, (informal group competitions with reward), individual discussions with students, class, topic and semester tests, and internal examinations. Daily observation can be done when marking exercises of the previous day and class questions.
Assignments, case studies and tests can be done at the end of a topic. Tests and internal examinations must form part of internal assessment.

3.1.2 Practical/ Application Component
Practical components include applications and exercises. All practical components must be indicated in a Portfolio of Evidence (PoE).
The practical component will form 60 percent of internal assessment.
Internal assessment of the practical component of Marketing Communication NQF Level 3 will take the form of assignments, practical exercises, case studies, practical examination in a simulated business environment.
Students may complete practical exercises on a daily basis. Assignments and case studies can be done at the end of a topic. A practical examination can form part of the internal practical assessment.

• Some examples of practical assessments include, but are not limited to:
  A. Presentations (lectures, demonstrations, group discussions and activities, practical work, observation, role play, self activity, judging and evaluation)
  B. Exhibitions
  C. Visits undertaken by learners based on a structured assignment task
  D. Research
  E. Task performance in a simulated/structured environment

• Definition of the term “structured environment”
“Structured environment” for the purposes of assessment refers to an actual or simulated workplace, or workshop environment. It is advised that a practicum room is available on each campus for practical assessment.

• Evidence in practical/application assessments
All evidence pertaining to evaluation of practical work must be reflected in the students’ Portfolio of Evidence. The tools and instruments constructed and used for the purpose of conducting such assessments must be clear from evidence contained in the PoE. A checklist of the practical work to be submitted in the PoE must be designed to facilitate the assessment of the PoE.

3.1.3 Processing of internal assessment mark for the year
A year mark out of 100 is calculated by adding the marks of the theoretical component and the practical component of the internal continuous assessment.
3.1.4 Moderation of internal assessment mark
Internal assessment is subject to both internal and external moderation procedures as set out in the National Examinations Policy for FET College Programmes.

3.2 External assessment (50 percent)
A national examination is conducted annually in October or November each year by means of a paper/s set externally and marked and moderated externally.
Details in respect of external assessment are contained in the Assessment Guidelines: Marketing Communication (Level 3).
