INTRODUCTION

A. What is Food Preparation?
In Food Preparation, theoretical knowledge and principles are applied to the practical preparation and execution of menus. A wide variety of food commodities, preparation methods and presentation methods are used to equip students with knowledge, skills and values to enter the hospitality industry as cooks or commis chefs. The subject is underpinned by health, hygiene and safety applications.

B. Why is Food Preparation important in the Hospitality programme?
Food Preparation provides students with practical, marketable skills to enter the hospitality industry as an employee or entrepreneur. The subject enhances students’ creativity and flair and instils principles such as planning, organisation, productivity, discipline, neatness and hygiene. It produces students with practical food preparation skills that can be applied in a wide range of hospitality contexts.

C. The link between Food Preparation Learning Outcomes and the Critical and Developmental Outcomes
Food Preparation enables students to be competent and creative in the production and presentation of food and beverages. Students will develop basic entrepreneurial and problem-solving skills in relation to food and beverage operations. Students will be aware of and understand the importance of cultural uniqueness and service excellence in the hospitality industry. Students will understand the aesthetic value of food and beverages and demonstrate an understanding of ethics and values which relate to the hospitality industry. Students will be able to apply the important principles of teamwork through developing interdependence and self-discipline. Lastly, students will be able to use technology effectively and critically, showing responsibility to the environment and the health, safety and security of others in the hospitality industry.

The following Critical Outcomes are addressed in Food Preparation:

- Identify and solve problems in which responses display that responsible decisions, using critical and creative thinking, have been made.
- Work effectively with others as a member of a team, group, organisation or community.
- Organise and manage oneself and one’s activities responsibly and effectively.
- Collect, analyse, organise and critically evaluate information.
- Communicate effectively using visual, mathematical and/or language skills in the modes of oral and/or written presentation.

D. Factors that contribute to achieving Food Preparation Learning Outcomes
Students with a keen interest in the practical side of food preparation and presentation will find the subject exciting and challenging. The subject will suit students with creative flair and the wish to acquire high quality, practical kitchen skills. It requires students to work individually and in teams in an organised, disciplined manner. Students must be able to follow instructions and take responsibility for their actions.
1 DURATION AND TUITION TIME
This is a one-year instructional programme comprising 200 teaching and learning hours. The subject may be offered on a part-time basis provided the candidate meets all the assessment requirements. Course preparation should consider students with special education needs.

2 SUBJECT LEVEL FOCUS
• Operate as an assistant cook/chef in the preparation of basic menu items

3 ASSESSMENT REQUIREMENTS
3.1 Internal assessment (50 percent)

3.1.1 Theoretical Component
The theoretical component will form 40 percent of internal assessment.
Internal assessment of the theoretical component of Food Preparation Level 4 will take the form of observation, class questions, group work, individual discussions with students, topic and semester tests and internal examinations.
Assignments, case studies and tests can be done at the end of a topic. Tests and internal examinations must form part of internal assessment.

3.1.2 Practical Component
Practical components include applications, exercises and performance.
The practical components must be indicated in a Portfolio of Evidence (PoE).
The practical component will form 60 percent part of internal assessment.
Internal assessment of the practical component of Food Preparation NQF Level 4 will take the form of assignments, practical exercises, case studies, practical examination in a simulated hospitality environment.
Students may complete practical exercises on a daily basis. Assignments and case studies can be done at the end of a topic. Practical examination can form part of internal practical assessment.

• Some examples of activities for practical assessments include, but are not limited to:
  ▪ Presentations (lectures, demonstrations, group discussions and activities, practical work, observation, role play, self activity, judging and evaluation)
  ▪ Exhibitions by students
  ▪ Visits undertaken by students based on a structured assignment task
  ▪ Research and developing information brochures
  ▪ Task performance in a simulated/structured environment

• Definition of the term “Structured Environment”
“Structured environment” for the purposes of assessment refers to an actual or simulated workplace, or workshop environment. It is advised that practical assessment for Food Preparation be integrated with Hospitality Generics and customer service assessments.

• Evidence in practical assessments
All evidence pertaining to evaluation of practical work must be reflected in the student’s PoE. The tools and instruments constructed and used for the purpose of conducting such assessments must be clear from evidence contained in the PoE.

3.1.3 Processing of internal assessment mark for the year
A year mark out of 100 is calculated by adding the marks of the theoretical component and the practical component of the internal continuous assessment.
3.1.4 Moderation of internal assessment mark
Internal assessment is subjected to both internal and external moderation procedures as contained in the National Examinations Policy for FET College Programmes.

3.2 External assessment (50 percent)
A national examination is conducted annually in October or November by means of a paper set, marked and moderated externally.
Details in respect of external assessment are contained in the Assessment Guidelines: Food Preparation (Level 3).
