3. Rationale

- 1 The GEC qualification is aimed at serving the needs of learners in the schooling system who complete the compulsory basic education. This need is currently not met by any other qualification on the NQF. The GEC gives recognition to formal learning that has taken place by the end of Grade 9 in fulfilment of the promotion and progression requirements in the National Curriculum Statement for Grades R to 12.

- 2 The GEC qualification will provide learners with an earlier indicator of their performance on a standardised assessment.
- 3 The achievement of the General Education Certificate (GEC) is designed to enable learners to access three learning pathways:
 - a. To continue with an academic route through the completion of the National Curriculum Statement (NCS) in schools, culminating in the achievement of the National Senior Certificate at NQF Level 4.
 - b. To choose a vocational route through completion of the National Certificate: Vocational Qualifications at NQF Levels 2, 3 and 4, which contain vocational specialisations that are offered in TVET Colleges.
 - c. To have access to Occupational specific qualifications at NQF Level 2, 3 and 4, which consist of knowledge, skills and workplace experience and learning, in schools or in other institutions.
- 4 Achievement of the GEC will indicate that the successful learner has completed and achieved the required knowledge, skills, values and competence in a general educational qualification at Level 1 on the NQF.
- 5 The GEC provides requirements that will:
 - a. provide the system with a quality assurance mechanism that will be used to confirm the quality of learner performance and acknowledge the values, knowledge and skills the learners have acquired during the compulsory years of education;
 - b. assure quality of teaching, learning and assessment in the GET band; and
 - c. ensure that appropriate processes are put in place to monitor and support performance of learners throughout the GET band, and support learners into accessing different career and learning pathways.
- 7 The General Education Certificate, Level 1 aims to:
 - a. give recognition to learners who achieve and meet the necessary requirements and competencies as specified in the Exit Level Outcomes and associated Assessment Criteria as set out in the GFETQSF along differentiated pathways;
 - b. ensure that learners develop relevant skills, knowledge, attitudes and values in each of the subjects;
 - c. provide a solid foundation of general education learning which is the basis for access to Further Education and Training learning and qualifications;
 - d. develop learners who are sensitive and reflective of issues relating to diversity, equality, inclusivity, cultural values, human rights, human dignity, non-racialism, belief, and gender;
 - e. equip learners with appreciation for lifelong learning;

- f. equip learners to function better as citizens in South Africa and contribute to societal and environmental issues; and
 - g. equip learners with study skills to be able to access further learning.
- 8 The GEC will provide for multiple modes of curriculum delivery, and cater for modernised examination system.

4. Purpose

- 1 The General Education Certificate (GEC), a Level 1 qualification on the General and Further Education and Training Qualifications Sub-framework is aimed at learners in schools. This Qualification provides a foundation certificate for learners in the General Education and Training (GET).
- 2 The aim is to build a schooling system that recognises the knowledge, skills, values and competencies gained from ten compulsory years of formal schooling at the end of Grade 9 and to provide access into Further Education and Training learning programmes. The GEC aims to provide a well-balanced, general education which will benefit learners at the end of compulsory schooling or, alternatively define a learner profile for learners accessing Further Education and Training, and other alternative institutions.
- 3 Provide foundation for quality, standardised general education and training as envisaged in the NCS for the end of the General Education and Training (GET), and help prepare them for life after school and enable them to access particular occupational workplace-based learning.
- 4 The GEC qualification will provide standardised benchmarks against which schools can compare their internal assessment standards.
- 5 The attainment of the GEC marks the end of the General Education and Training of formal schooling. A learner who obtained the GEC is advised to continue with their learning in the three learning pathways: general academic, technical and vocational, and occupational.

16. Curriculum Overview

- 1 The GEC is underpinned by the National Curriculum Statement (NCS) for Grades R to 12, which represents a policy statement for learning and teaching in South African schools. It is the curriculum that underpins the various programmes followed in each Grade from Grades R – 12, and comprises of:
 - a) the Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement (CAPS) for all approved subjects;
 - b) the National policy pertaining to the programme and promotion requirements of the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12 (NPPPR); and
 - c) the National Protocol for Assessment Grades R – 12.
- 2 The NCS provides guidance for the management of school assessment and school assessment records.

17. The main purposes of the assessment

- 1 The overarching goal of the General Education Certificate is to improve the attainment of the learning outcomes in the General Education and Training Band. It is envisaged that this goal will be achieved through the achievement of following sub-goals:
 - a) To set standards of the desired competencies required after 10 years of formal schooling (Grade R-9);
 - b) To provide learners, parents and schools with information relevant to the learner on the pathway to follow;
 - c) To provide formal recognition and certify learners based on their achievement at the end of ten years of schooling.

18. Assessment structure

- 1 The GEC will be linked to the broader National Assessment Framework (NAF) of the Department of Basic Education.
- 2 To achieve the overarching goal and sub-goals, the GEC assessment will comprise three major assessment components:

- a. Standardised external assessment in selected subjects;
 - b. School-based assessment; and
 - c. Aptitude (or Abilities) assessments linked to skills, knowledge, values and attitudes.
- 3 All assessments will be designed based on nationally determined standards that are derived from the NCS.

19. Standardised External Assessment

- 1 In the context of the GEC, the standardised external assessment refers to a curriculum achievement test, that is set outside of the school and based on defined curriculum competencies of the National Curriculum Statement.
- 2 Standardised External Assessment will consist of written standardised assessments that are:
 - a. externally set, and marked by an accredited assessment body and/or the Department of Basic Education and externally moderated by Umalusi. This will apply to the four fundamental subjects (Home Language, First Additional Language, Mathematics and Natural Sciences) plus one other subject on a rotational basis; and
 - b. externally set and administered by the accredited assessment body and/or the Department of Basic Education and marked by the individual schools based on nationally approved assessment marking guidelines and moderated by Umalusi. This will apply to the suite of four remaining subjects.
- 3 The assessment should accommodate the various learning needs and learning styles of learners with special education needs.
- 4 The standardised external assessment will constitute 60% of the final promotion mark.
- 5 The norms and standards to which all assessment bodies must give effect are stipulated in the policy document, National policy and regulations on the conduct, administration and management of the General Education Certificate: A qualification at level 1 on the General and Further Education and Training Qualifications Sub-framework of the NQF (to be developed after the qualification has been registered). Assessment bodies are also required to adhere to the quality assurance directives issued by Umalusi in respect of this qualification.

20. School-based assessment:

- 1 SBA is conducted by teachers at schools or other sites of learning, in which the achievement of the learning outcomes will count towards the achievement of a qualification. SBA is a compulsory component of the promotion mark.

- 2 SBA must include a variety of assessment forms and it should attempt to assess knowledge and skills that cannot be assessed in an external standardised assessment. It will include Practical Assessment Tasks, projects, research assignments, and oral presentations. It will assess learning outcomes that need to be observed over an extended period and it will accommodate learners with special educational needs.
- 3 The school-based assessment must include both informal and formal assessment. The informal assessment will be part of the formative assessment used to continuously assess the learner to determine his progress towards the achievement of the learning outcomes. The formal assessment tasks are summative in nature and they are stipulated in the CAPS. These assessment tasks will be recorded for purpose of promotion and certification.
- 4 School-based assessment will focus on performance based assessment which will be linked to an Integrated Common Assessment Task (ICAT) with a theme that seamlessly integrates content and skills within a subject and also across selected subjects e.g. Entrepreneurship.
- 5 SBA will comprise assessment tasks that are set and marked by the teacher or the Practical Assessment Tasks that are set by the cluster or ICAT that are centrally set and marked by the teacher.
- 6 ICAT must be designed to achieve the following:
 - a. An integration of the outcomes to be achieved at the end of the GET in a way that reflects a comprehensive approach to learning and shows that the purpose of the qualification has been achieved,
 - b. Judgement of learner performance to provide evidence of applied competence or capability and
 - c. Facilitate the development of skills across subjects and show evidence of applied knowledge within different contexts.
- 7 The learner performance demonstrated in SBA will be recorded as formal assessment tasks and reported against the requirements for promotion.
- 8 These assessments conducted in respect of the GET must be subject to external moderation put in place by the Department of Basic Education, or relevant accredited assessment body.
- 9 The weighting of the SBA across all subjects will be 40%.
- 10 Umalusi will develop a quality assurance system that focuses on ensuring that the Department of Basic Education or the accredited assessment body, establishes appropriate moderation systems for SBA.

21. Recording and reporting of learner achievement

- 1 Recording and reporting is based on the individual assessment tasks. Parents will be provided a progress report on the performance of the learner on a quarterly basis. A certificate will be issued at the end of the academic year to recognise competencies and skills of learners as at the end of grade 9.
- 2 The language in which recording and reporting is done should be in accordance with the Language of Learning and Teaching (LoLT) as informed by the Language-in-Education Policy of 1997. In the case of dual medium schools, one of the languages used as LoLT should be utilised for reporting purposes, while the language of recording should be any of the languages used for learning and teaching.

22. Rating Scale

RATING CODE	ACHIEVEMENT DESCRIPTION	MARKS %
7	Outstanding Achievement	80 - 100
6	Meritorious Achievement	70 - 79
5	Substantial Achievement	60 - 69
4	Adequate Achievement	50 - 59
3	Moderate Achievement	40 - 49
2	Elementary Achievement	30 - 39
1	Not Achieved	0 - 29

CHAPTER 4

Accreditation

23. Minimum accreditation requirements for offering the GEC

- 1 A private assessment body that has an interest in conducting the external examinations of the GEC should meet all the accreditation requirements as set out in Umalusi's accreditation policy for assessment bodies, and be accredited by Umalusi to offer the GEC examinations.
- 2 Independent schools offering the GEC should meet all the accreditation requirements as set out in Umalusi's accreditation policy and be accredited by Umalusi to offer the qualification.

CHAPTER 5

Transitional Arrangements

24. Transitional arrangements

- 1 The Policy for the General Education Certificate: A qualification at Level 1 on the General and Further Education and Training Qualifications Sub-framework of the NQF will commence on the day of its promulgation in the Government Gazette and becomes effective in public ordinary and special schools and those independent schools that offer the National Curriculum Statement Grades R – 12.
- 2 The General Education Certificate: ID No. 63289 was never implemented until it was deregistered in 2012, therefore the introduction of this policy is not envisioned to disadvantage any learner.

25. Short title and commencement

This policy is called the Draft Policy for the General Education Certificate: A qualification at Level 1 on the General and Further Education and Training Qualifications Sub-framework of the National Qualifications Framework (NQF), and will come into effect on the date of publication in a Government Gazette.

ANNEXURE D: International Comparability

National examinations or certification frameworks mark the end of an educational phase, and ongoing teacher assessment frequently determines student progression between grades. In many countries a qualification is offered at different periods in the system to include lower grades than grade 12 as in the South African system. To situate the GEC in the context of other international practices, the discussion focuses on the Junior Certificate offered in Ireland, Secondary School Certificate (SSC) offered in Pakistan and the Primary School Leaving Examination (PSLE) offered in Singapore.

IRELAND

The Junior Certificate, is an educational qualification awarded in Ireland by the Department of Education and Skills to students who have successfully completed the junior cycle of secondary education and achieved a minimum standard in their Junior Certificate Examination. These exams are supervised by the State Examinations Commission. The objective of the Junior Cycle is to provide a well-balanced, general education suitable for pupils who leave full-time education at the end of compulsory schooling or, alternatively, who wish to enter on more advanced courses of study. The first Junior Certificate syllabus was introduced in 1989 and examined in 1992. A "recognised pupil" who commences the Junior Cycle must reach at least 12 years of age on 01 January of the school year of admission and must have completed primary education.

The examination is normally taken after three years' study in a secondary school. Typically, a student takes 9 to 13 subjects; including English, Irish and Mathematics as part of the Junior Cycle. The examination does not reach the standards for college or university entrance; instead, a school leaver in Ireland will typically take the Leaving Certificate Examination two or three years after completion of the Junior Certificate to reach that standard.

In the late 1990s, the Department of Education and Science began to review and replace many subject curricula, particularly those that were dated, such as History and Geography. In 1999, Civic, Social, and Political Education was introduced as a subject and made mandatory from 2000. Religious Education was also brought in. In 2002 a new Science course was introduced. The new course emphasised greater class participation and introduced the awarding of a percentage of marks for class practicals throughout the three years.

Courses are quite broad, for example, the Business Studies course covers business organisation, marketing, economics, accounting and several other areas. The same is also true of the Science course, which covers basic physics, chemistry and biology. A "recognised junior pupil" must undertake all the mandatory subjects and at least two of the optional subjects, except insofar as exemptions or exclusions apply. In certain types of schools, subjects in the optional grouping (or a selection from combinations of them) may, in fact, be mandatory, for instance, History and Geography are mandatory in certain types of schools. Most schools do not offer all the optional subjects but must offer all the mandatory and certain optional subjects.

For the Junior Certificate, students can take an examination subject at one of four levels. These are: Higher Level, Ordinary Level, Foundation Level or Common Level. Foundation

Level may only be taken in two subjects: Irish and Mathematics. The level taken at Junior Certificate may have bearing on the level taken in the Leaving Certificate; thus, for instance, a student who take an Ordinary level in the Junior Certificate and cannot take a Higher level in the corresponding Leaving Certificate subject.

The final examination takes place after three years of the course, in early June. The exams can take the form of written papers, aural exams, practical exams (for example, in Music, 25% of the final result is based on a performance and skills test in front of an examiner) and marks from course work assignments. In the Junior Certificate candidates have the option of answering either in Irish (only if they have been in the Irish stream) or in English, except in the case of the subjects Irish and English and questions in other language subjects.

Students who face disadvantages (e.g. suffer spelling problems caused by dyslexia, dyspraxia, dysgraphia, or other disorders such as Autism Spectrum Disorder or ADHD) are given concessions.

Junior Certificate results are not a prerequisite for the Leaving Certificate, so that all students may continue to their next year of education no matter what their results.

In late 2009 the Irish Government considered for a short period of time to completely scrap all Junior Cert examinations permanently. However, later on, the government agreed to not scrap the Junior Certificate and instead, introduced curriculum reforms which extended from 2014 to 2019. Pilots of the new system have been underway for three years. It is expected that the full Junior Cert will be revised into the Junior Cycle Student Award by 2022.

Pakistan

There are two major external examinations leading to certification in Pakistan: the Secondary School Certificate (SSC) at the end of Classes 9 and 10, and the Higher Secondary School Certificate after Class 12. Class 9 examinations are called SSC part-1 and class 10 examinations are called SSC part-2. The students are awarded a certificate upon completion of SSC part-2. A child enters into the SSC level after successful completion of the middle school. The secondary school examinations have a dual function: to gain certification for the purposes of securing employment, and to enable admission to higher levels of education. Students passing the Secondary School Certificate examinations are expected to exhibit good verbal and written communication. Mostly, such school leavers are employed as junior staff in various public sector departments, in the police or the army, in agriculture or industry (e.g., hospitality and transport), or enter self-employment.

The SSC examinations are conducted by government boards, officially known as Boards of Intermediate and Secondary Education, or simply BISE. Every province has its own boards stationed in main districts of the provinces.

The curriculum in 10th grade is divided into different streams; Sciences, Arts, Humanities and Vocational/Technical. Upon completion of grade 9, students are expected to take a standardised test in each of the first part of their academic subjects. They again take tests of the second parts of the same courses at the end of grade 10. The curriculum usually includes a combination of eight courses including electives (such as Biology, Chemistry, Computer and Physics) as well as compulsory subjects (such as Mathematics, English, Urdu, Islamic studies and Pakistan Studies).

Students then enter an intermediate college and complete grades 11 and 12. Upon completion of each of the two grades, they again take standardised tests in their academic subjects. Upon successful completion of these examinations, students are awarded the Higher Secondary School Certificate (or HSSC).

Singapore

The Primary School Leaving Examination (PSLE) is an annual national examination that is taken by candidates at the end of their final year of primary school education, in Singapore. Introduced in 1960, the PSLE has undergone many modifications over the years. In the 1960s and '70s, changes to the PSLE system were mainly concerned with providing alternative educational pathways to pupils who failed the examination. In the '80s and '90s, the focus shifted towards fine-tuning the PSLE grading system so that pupils would enter the most appropriate secondary-level academic stream. From the 2000s onwards, the PSLE framework was further reviewed to de-emphasise competition and encourage the holistic development of children. In August 2005, an overseas version of the PSLE was launched. Known as the Singapore International Primary School Examination (iPSLE), it was developed for pupils of overseas primary schools that followed a curriculum similar to that in Singapore.

PSLE is also used to assesses the suitability of students for secondary education and places them in one of three 4-year secondary school programmes that will match their learning pace, ability and inclination. The Primary School Leaving Examination is administered by the Ministry of Education and taken by all students. In March 2018 the call for the removal of the PSLE was rejected in Parliament. It was cited it as a "useful checkpoint" in a child's education journey.

The examination test students' proficiency in the English language, their respective mother tongue languages (typically Chinese, Malay, Tamil), mathematics and science. The format of the examinations within the PSLE has been revised consistently throughout its history to suit the Ministry of Education's policy. On 13 July 2016, Ministry of Education officially announced the latest revision to the PSLE Scoring System. The aggregate score for the PSLE was replaced with wider scoring bands from 2021. Scores reflect students' own level of achievement, instead of comparing them to their peers, thus allowing students to focus on their own learning outcomes.

The outcomes of PSLE are considered when allocating admissions to preferred secondary school.

In conclusion, the discussion presented above show that the awarding of a General Education Certificate to learners at the end of the compulsory 10 years of formal schooling is comparable with countries that recognise the need for external examinations and certification at different levels of the schooling system. It is evident from the different countries that the aspirations of the GEC, which include streaming learner into different learning and career pathways, also form the basis of developing qualifications for primary and junior secondary education elsewhere.
